

Corona Virus an Opportunity or a Threat in the Time of Media Ruling Over

Alireza Atarodi*, Ahmadreza Atarodi

Background

Media are so power and governing the world today. They can be the prophet of peace and a good help and making peace fast and stop the wars by their deep informatically impressive, reporting correct and pleasure news, producing calm and happiness, giving hope and so many kinds of positive actions to make and put the world in its right destiny. The people today need them and they need the people for mutual interaction, peaceful cooperation, knowledge sharing, justice, kindness and all humanity based on their numerous capabilities. Then, we tried to survey Corona Virus an Opportunity or a Threat in the Time of Media Ruling Over.

Method

It is a Short communication research that was conducted by using and searching on data banks and information resources related to the subject of novelty searches and the necessary texts as well as the subject of research. Since this is a simple review, No methodology was used to be explained. It was based on an opinion emerged due to the crisis we are faced with.

Results

It seems that we need today in the world sympathy, cooperation, good and mutual relations, common researches, dialog, discussion, clear and comprehensive laboratory activities and sharing the result clearly without any political, economic and cultural expectations and superiority or rivalry, no sanction and band of any kind for any ruling areas, and this is something we must and should know and be well aware of that by the help of the Media to fill all the problematic gaps, and they really can and should. Globally cooperation of the Media for a peaceful world can be reached if they do their best and intend to have it such so. According to Sarah Boseley, health editor, Misinformation and fake news on social media during infectious disease outbreaks, including the current novel coronavirus epidemic, can cost lives and make so many other problems for the world.

Conclusion

Media in their all format and design have an effective and impressive impact in changing the atmosphere of any crisis and challenge, global unity, sharing ability, participating power, international cooperation, being realistic in reports, controlling widespread diseases outbreak, bringing peace, stopping the wars, transfer and improve public information and knowledge, make wisdom and civilization, being good players, impressive teachers for the planet, creator of joy and pleasure, make the rulers in peace and cooperation with the public, make the children more happy and give them more hope, make more schools and academic centers, lessen hospitals and prisons and make the people think and believe they live in one border called the Earth not in different communities and finally the Media should believe that they are mediator to mediate not to supriate and then, this is an opportunity for all of the creatures, and the Media as well, in the Ruling Era of Media that they are in Power.
